mans-Martin mild steel throughout. The acted by a most capable company. steamer is being built under the supervision of the Board of Veritiles and will carry their "Star Crescent" certificate, proving that she is one of the best passenger steamers afloat.

She measures about 300 feet in length and 68 feet in breadth. The engine is of the walking-beam type, and with the feathering type of side propelling wheels, the jar or theamor common to boats is absolutely done away with. Steam is supplied by three non-explosive boilers. Steam steering gear, as well as all other modern equipments, is used, and the steamer will be lighted by 800 incandescent electric lights, besides a powerful searchlight.

The exterior of the Greyhound's upper works, will be, as usual, of pine, painted white. The interior will be finished in hard oak cabinet work, quarter-sawed oak being used on the main deck, mahogany in the dining room and grand saloon, and chestnut, stained malacite. in the gentlemen's smoking room on the hurricane deck, She also has a ladies' parlor, or observatory, on the hurricane deck, which will be finished in gold and white. This is an entirely new feature on the Greyhound that is not found on any other passenger steamer. Another particular feature of the Greyhouund, especially worthy of note, is the number and size of the windows (all plate glass), which are so numerous and low that passengers can sit in the grand saloon, dining room or any other room or parlor on the steamer and enjoy equally with A Small Bourbon Farm those outside the unrivalled scenery through which the steamer passes.

The private parlors on the Greyhound are provided with bay windows and are in the cit of Phris, on very luxuriou of furnished. CHAPTER XIV.

SIEGE OF THE SACRED MOUNTAIN. Now my passage across the great continent of Atlantis, if tedious and haunted by many dangers, need not be recounted in detail here. After some days I passed the black forest and the country from there onward had at one The houses were perched in afield. trees for the most part, as there they were out of reach of cave-bear and cave-tiger and the other more dangerour beasts. But others, and these were the better ones, were built on the ground, of logs so ponderous and so firmly clamped and dove-tailed that the beasts could not pull them down; and once inside a house of this fashion its owners were safe, and could progue at any attackers through the interstices between the logs, and often wound, sometimes make a kill.

But not one in ten of these outlying settlers remained. The houses were silent when I reached them, the firehearth before the door weed-grown. and the patch of vegetables taken back by the greedy fingers of the forest into mere scrub and jungle. And farther on, when villages began to appear, strongly walled, as the custom is. to ward off the attacks of beasts, the logs which aforetime had barred the gateway lay strewn in a sprouting undergrowth, and naught but the kitchen middens remained to prove that once they had sheltered human tenants. Phorenice's influence seemed to have spread as though it were some horrid blight over the whole face of what was once a smiling and an easy-living land.

At last I found myself within a halfday's journey of the city of Atlantis itself, with the Sacred Mountain and its ring of fires looming high beside.it, and the call for caution became trebly accentuated. Everywhere evidences showed that the country had been drained of its fighting men. Everywhere women prayed that the battles might end with the rout of the priests or the killing of Phorenice, so that the wretched land might have peace and time to lick its wounds.

An army was investing the Sacred Mountain, and its one approach was most narrowly guarded. Even after having journeyed so far, it seemed as if I should have to sit hopelessly down without being able to carry out the orders which had been laid upon me by the high council, and earn the reward which had been promised. Force would be useless here. I should have one good fight-a gorgeous fight-one man against an army, and my usefulness would be ended. No; this was the occasion for guile, and I found covert in the outskirts of a wood, and them, and it was men we lacked. Of loomed in black outline from the fifth verse was reached, and the parson lay there cudgeling my brain for a students entering into the colleges highest crag where it rested, lonely

Thou burrow'st through a mountain, here go round to that flank of the Sacred was the prestige of her name that and together we recited the prayers the rocks run down sheer, and there they will lower a rope and haul you up away from the defense.

He took himself off then, and I grass blazed up for a signal almost beof it; and that night, when the darkness gave me cover, I took the risk of what beasts might be prowling, and went to the place appointed. There was no rope dangling, but presently one came down the smooth cliff-face like some slender snake. I made a loop, slipped it over a leg, and pulled hard as a signal. Those above began to haul, and so I went back to the Sacred Mountain after an absence of so many toilsome and warring years. There were none to disturb the ascent. Phorenice's troops had no thought to guard that gaunt, bare, seamless preci-

The men who hauled me up were old, and panted heavily with their task, and, until I knew the reason, I wondered why a knot of younger priests had not been appointed for the duty. But I put no question. With us of the Priests' clan on the Sacred Mountain it is always taken as granted that when an order is given it is given for the best. Besides, these priests did not offer themselves to question. They took me off at once to Zaemon, and

"She shall be brought here." "So! Then I will be a general now, and see to the defenses of this place, and view the men who are here to stand behind them."

I went out of the dwelling then, Zaenon giving place and following me. It was night still, but there is no darkness on the upper part of the Sacred Mountain. A ring of fires, fed eternally from the earth-breath which wells ap from below, burns round one-half of the crest, lighting it always as bright as day, and in fact forming no small part of its fortification. Indeed, it is said that in the early dawn of history men first came to the mountain as a stronghold because of the natural defense which the fires offered.

There is no bridging these flames or smothering them. On either side of their line for a hundred paces the ground glows with heat, and a man would be turned to ash time carried a sturdy population who tried to cross it. Round fall which held its own firmly, and, as its one-half of the mountain slopes the and on the other side the rocks run in one sheer precipice from the crest the mountain, inspecting all points, to the plain which spreads beyond its the emptiness of the place smote me that there is the only entrance way which gives passage to the crest of the Sacred Mountain from below. leaves in upon the temple floors, and Running diagonally up the steep face of the cliff is a gigantic fissure, which succeeding ages (as man has grown more luxurious) have made more easy to climb.

> Looking at the additions, in the ancient days, I can well imagine that none but the most daring could have made the ascent. But one generation has thrown a bridge over a bad gap here, and another has cut the living stone and widened a gap ledge there, ill in these latter years there is a ath with cut steps and carved balusrade such as the feeblest or most giddy might traverse with little effort or exertion. But always when these improvers made smooth the obstacles, they were careful to weaken in no possible way the defenses, but rather to add to them.

> Eight gates of stone there were cutting the pathway, each commanding a straight, steep piece of the ascent, and overhanging each gate was a gallery secure from arrow shot, yet so contrived that great stones could be hurled through holes in the floor of it, in such a manner that they must irretrievably smash to a pulp any man advancing against it from below. And in caves dug out from the rock on either hand was a great hoard of these stones, so that no enemy through sheer expenditure of troops could hope to storm a gate by exhausting its ammunition.

But though there were eight of hese granite gates in the series, we had the whole number to depend on by a garrison of Phorenice's troops, who had built a wall above them to had been gained by no brilliant feat blackest treachery.

high council made him stay his vengeful hand. And so, when I came to the place, the garrison numbered no more than 80, counting even feeble old dotards who could barely walk; and of men not past their prime I could barely command a score.

Still, seeing the narrowness of the passages which led to each of the gates, up which in no place could more than two men advance together, we were by no means in desperate even if my new-given kingdom was so ther contracted.

The old man greeted me with the from the people to their priests, and Fox,' I i.). presently, so the old histories say, it thereto by the high council of the the form of grain, as this was a medium both dignified and fitting. And those of the people who had it were not forced to barter their other produce for grain before they could pay this tribute. On the Sacred Mountain itself vast and here the grain was teemed in great yellow heaps, and each generation of those that were set over it took a pride in adding to the accumulation. In modern days it had been the custom among the younger and more forward of the priests to scoff at this ancient provision, and to hold that a treasure of gold or weapons or jewels would have more value and no less of dignity; and more than once it had been a close thing lest these innovators should not be outvoted. But as it was, the old constitution had happily been preserved, and now in these years of trial the clan reaped the benefit. And so with these granaries and a scries of great tanks and cisterns which held the rainfall, there was no chance of Phorenice reducing our stronghold by mere close investment, even though she sat down stubbornly before it for like a succession of blows. The groves, once so trim, were now shaggy and unpruned. Wind had whirled the they lay there unswept. The collège of vouths held no more than a musty smell to bear witness that men had once been grown there. The homely palaces of the higher priests, at one time so ardently sought after, lay many of them empty, because not even one candidate came forward now to canvass for election.

Evil thoughts surged up within me as I saw these things, that were direct promptings from the nether gods. "There must be something wanting," these tempters whispered, "in a religion from which so many of its priests fled at the first pinch of persecution."

I did what I could to thrust these waverings resolutely behind me; but they refused to be altogether ousted from my brain; and so I made a compromise with myself: First, I would with the help that might be given me, destroy this wanton Phorenice, and regain the kingdom which had been given me to my own proper rule; and afterwards I would call a council of the seven and council of the three, and consider without prejudice if there was any matter in which our ancient ritual could be amended to suit the modern requirements. But this should not be done till Phorenice was dead and I was firmly planted in her room. I would not be a party, even to myself, to any plan which smacked at all of surrender.

And there as I walked through the desolate groves and beside the cold no longer. The lowest gate was held altars, the high gods were pleased to show their approval of my scheme, and to give me opportunity to bind vow. At that moment, from his disof arms-it had been won by threats, tant resting place in the east, our bribery and promises; or, in other Lord the Sun leaped up to begin anwent are useless without men to line against it the Ark of the Mysteries gregation. At the Confessional

By W. F. G. THACHER.

THICK wet mist had crept up A from the channel Paris in a dripping shadow. It muffled from the channel and wrapt the noises of the streets and transformed the street lamps into ghastly blurs of yellow light, reflected dimly in the wet pavement. With the fog came a chill wind which nipped the bare toes of the newsboys, quickened the measured tread of the gendarmes and caused the few belated pedestrians to hasten homewards.

Within the great eathedral all was gloom and silence. It was deserted, save for a few miserables, who lingered more for the warmth and proteetion than from any motives of piety. The sacrificial candles twinkled with a lambent radiance which lent an uncanny aspect to the barbaric splendor of the altar, and served to exaggerate the impressive distances of the inte-

Before one of the confessionals a priest was standing, alone. His arms were folded on his breast and his head lowered in an attitude of meditation. lle was a man of 30 or thereahouts, tall and massive, with fine patrician features, from which his ascetic life had not entirely erased the lines of youth and enthusiasm. As he stood there, enwrapt in reverie, his face bore an incongruous expression of brooding pain. It was as if a dead past had come to life and was clutching at his heart with eruel fingers-the past which had drawn him to the priesthood for refuge, and which even its stern consolation could not banish.

In a distant loft an organ sounded, dissipating the images of his reveries. His fingers touched his beads and he prayed swiftly.

Outside, the mist had settled into a chill drizzle, and the streets were rapidly being deserted. A brougham, conspienous for its rich appointments, swept out of the current of vehicles and drew up in front of the eathedral. A liveried footman opened the door, and a woman veiled and garbed in a long coat stepped out and ascended the marble steps. Inside she noticed with satisfaction the almost deserted condition of the interior. Then she approached the solitary figure of the "Father," she said, in a low voice, but without hesitation, "I wish to confess to you. Will you hear me?"

"Begin, my ehild, and may God forgive you for your transgressions."

"I have no petty list of wrongdoings to confess to you, father," she began, "though there are enough of them, Heaven knows, but I wish to tell you the story of my life. I have never told it before, but I ean no longer keep silence."

"You do well to come to me," the priest answered, mechanically. "May the Holy Virgin intercede for you."

"Years ago," she continued, "no matter how many, I was betrothed to a young man. We were very much in arms to him. She was doing all in her love with each other, and life seemed full of bliss for us. "We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold cough and bronchitis." Another recommend from a Catholic institution of one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and since then we have used it with wonderful results for grlp, coughs, colds and catarrhal diseases of the head and stomach.

"For grip and winter catarrh especially it has been of great service to the inmates of this institution." These are samples of letters received by Dr. Hartman from the various orders of Catholic Sisters throughout the United States.

The names and addresses to these letters have been withheld from respect to the Sisters but will be furnished upon request.

mal state, would consequently eure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it he in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys, or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations.

Peruna is such a remedy. The Sisters of Charity know this. When eatarrhal diseases make their appearance they are not disconcerted, but know exactly what remedy to use. These wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard. They realize that when a discase is of catarrhal nature, Peruna is the remedy. Dyspepsia and female weakness are eonsidered by many to be entirely different diseases-that dyspepsia is catarrh of the stomaca and female weakness is due to eatarrh of the pelvie organs the Sisters are fully aware, consequently Peruna is their remedy in both these very common and annoying diseases.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

You Do, or You Don't FRIDAY SALES BARGAINS. Need Glasses

The eye being a rather delicate organ, great care should be exercised in the election of proper glasses. Many believe that glasses should be resorted to only when the sight becomes so defective as not to be able to do without. This is a great mistake which must be combatted Whenever there is unmistakable evidence of the need of their aid, they should be used. A neglect of this rule sometimes produces mischief which results in serious trouble if the course be persisted in.

Our Dr C. H. Bowen having just returned from taking a special course in Optics from one of the best specialists in New York, is prepared to do the best of work, having the latest improved methods of fitting. Examinations free. Next visit Wednesday, Mar. 12, 1902.

BOERS' HEAVY LOSS

Six Hundred Killed and Captured and Many Cattle Taken.

Among the Prisoners Are Gen. De-Wet's Son and His Secretary, Commandants Meyer and Truther-Field Cornets Taken.

London, March 1.—Following the precedent of Lord Roberts, who announced Gen. Cronje's surrender at Pardeeburg on the anniversary of the battle of Majuba Hill (February 27, 1881,), Lord Kitchener apparently selected the same anniversary to achieve a big success, by a combined movement lasting two days, against the Boer forces within the Harrismith and Van Renan line of blockhouses. The Boer losses aggregate 600 men killed or captured and 2,000 horses and 28,000 head of cattle fell into the hands of the British troops.

The news was so welcome to the British that it was read out in the house of commons by the war secretary, Mr. Broderick, from a dispatch of Lord Kitchener as follows:

'Harrismith, Feb. 28.-Yesterday the combined operations of the columns terminated in driving the Boers against the Harrismith and Van Reenen blockhouse lines. The river Wilge was held by the Leicester regiment and Elliott's mounted infantry from Harrismith, while the columns formed on the Frankfort and Botha's Pas: blockhouse line and advanced south, holding the entire country between the Wilge and the Natal frontier. On the first night a severe attempt to break through was made at a point between Remington's and Byng's (olwith great gallantry fight and the Boers, as usual, drove a large herd of cattle in front of them. Mani Botha, the Boer leader, was killed and 35 dead Boers were found on the ground. Over 100 horses were killed and 6,000 head of cattle were left in our hands. Other small attempts to break out were made and in two cases succeeded. On the last day 450 Boers, with rifles and horses, were captured. All the columns have not yet reported and the operations have been very wide, but over 600 Boers have been either killed or are prisoners in our hands; also 2,000 horses, 28,000 head of caitle, 200 wagons, 60, 000 sheep, 600 rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition. The prisoners include Gen. DeWet's son and his secretary; Commandants Meyer and Truther, and several field cornets. These satisfactory results are very appropriate on the anniversary of Majuba."

and vicinity is threatened with a disastrous flood. The great ice gorge in the Allegheny happily passed out Friday without doing any serious damage, but the great volume of water behind it, which is being augmented every moment by swollen creeks and moun tain streams, make it apparent that much damage must result before the waters subside. At 10:30 p. m. Friday the rivers reached the danger point and were rising fast. The residents of the down-town districts have been preparing for months for the flood which they thought inevitable. All have moved to second floors. The Lincoln and Boyer hotels and the Y. M. C. A. vacated the ground floors in anticipation of being flooded. The merchants along Penn avenue have installed steam siphons in order to keep cellars dry. The Fourth ward school will also be closed. Building operations along Penn avenue will be seriously interfered with. The exposition buildings were inundated Saturday morning. In Allegheny the P. & W. tracks are all under water, traffic being suspended. People living along the river are moving into second stories or going out in boats. The ball park is flooded and much damage is feared. As yet few coal flats have been swept away.

The reading on the indicator at the Sixth street bridge in the Allegheny river at 3 o'clock Saturday morning was 26 feet and 6 inches and rising about six inches an hour, while in the Monongahela river at the same hour the gauge showed 28 feet 6 inches with the same conditions.

Shortly before 3 o'clock the Allegheny river overflowed its banks along umns and the New Zealanders behared Duquesne way, between Fifth and Sixth streets and Sixth and Seventh The fighting was a close quarters streets, allowing the water to rush into cellars, rapidly filling them and causing much excitement in the immediate

THE SOUTHERN STORMS.

Seven Lives Were Lost and Several Persons Injured.

Atlanta, Ga., March 1.—Not in many years have the southeastern gulf states experienced damage so widespread by a storm as that which on Thursday visited Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida. As far as known seven lives were lost and several persons injured. The damage is enormous, the railroads being particularly heavy sufferers. Four lives were lost in a wreck near Griffin, Ga., which was caused by a washout. The other dead were Negroes whose cabins were blown The war secretary, Mr. Broderick, away by the storm. The electric light, iron works, street cars and Cornwall and Lebanon roads are flooded. Business in the flooded district is at a standstill. The First, Second, Third. Fourth and Fifth wards are flooded. Much damage has been done. The Sixth and Seventh wards have escaped. Small buildings along the creeks have been washed away, together with the foot bridges. Shallow creeks have swollen to an eight foot depth.

PHILADELPHIA FLOODED.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 3.-Wheeling is in the grasp of the worst flood it has experienced since that of 1884, vith but one exception. The maxinum stage was reached at 6 o'clock Sunday evening, 43 feet 3 inches, and the decline was expected to begin about midnight. In Wheeling, Bellaire, Benwood, Martin's Ferry and Bridgeport scores of factories have been entered by the raging waters, fires extinguished and 20,000 men placed on the list of involuntary idleness that will continue until Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Wheeling island was two-thirds covered by water Sunday night and fully 700 families are occupying the upper floors of their homes. South Wheeling and Benwood were hit fully as the flood tide, however, the people were enabled to move their belongings and as a consequence the property loss is not as heavy as on former oc-

Another half-filled can of nitro-glycerin was kicked around in the gutter in front of the Hotel Windsor by boys until an oil man disclosed the character of the contents. There was a scattering of the population in all directions. The police were called and removed the can.

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 3.-The fact that side streams ran out rapidly instead of forming a dam to back up the water from above has kept this city from experiencing a disastrous flood. With the danger line at a 36 foot stage, Sunday night it was 30.4 and rising 4 inches an hour. Forty feet was predicted for Monday, but the water will hardly reach that point. Fifty or more houses are flooded and many cellars are full. By Monday the numbers of adjacent towns many are seeking higher quarters, but the danger line has hardly been reached here. Snow and rain has prevailed since noon. The Big Sandy is still rising at White House, and at Guyan and Twelve Pole it is practically station-

A FIGHT WITH BURGLARS.

The Chief of Police and Two of the Robbers Were Wounded.

Mattoon, Ill., March 3.-In a fight between burglars and officers here early Sunday morning Chief of Police Lyons received wounds that may cause the loss of an arm by amputation and two or three youths whom the police were attempting to capture were wounded, one of them probably fatally. The police, having learned that an attempt would be made to rob a store, stationed several men in the building, and when the three youths entered through a rear window the police attempted to capture them. In the fight that followed Chief Lyons' arm was shattered, Sid Snapp, 17 years of age, was fatally wounded, and one of two brothers named Heath also was shot. The Heaths escaped and are still at large. The parents of the Heaths and young Snapp reside here.

Driven Out By High Water.

Olean, N. Y., March 3.-Sunday night the waters of the Allegheny river rose to within a block of the center of this city. The only railroad track that is passable is the Pennsylvania between Olean and Buffalo. The inhabitants of 200 houses along the river have been forced to abandon their

The year 1902 will be a memorable one to philatelists, and will beat all previous records. They have already started with the new Edward VII. stamps. America is printing fresh stamps in honor of Mr. Roosevelt, and Germany announces an important new stamp for the coming spring. Switzerland is planning : stamp. Russia will celebrate the second centenary of the building of St. Petersburg by a fresh issue. Finally it is hoped by all ardent philatelists that a limited number of new stamps will be printed this year in honor of the coronation, says the London News. A collector protests against the statement that the philatelists "hope for' a limited number of stamps printed in honor of the coronation. Special and unnecessary issues are, he says, detested by the serious collector, a fact which raises our opinion of the fraternity considerably. He says: "It is one of the charms of specializing in the stamps of Great Britain that this country has been kept singularly free hard. A congress is officially known by its number; the present is the Fifty-seventh. It is becoming a common practice to designate them as the "first Crisp," the "third Keed," or the "second Henderson," which would be the every-day designation of this one. Mrs. L. A. Harris, a Prominent Member of a Chicago Woman's Political Club, tells how Ovarian Troubles may be Cured without a Surgical Operation. She says:

"Doctors have a perfect craze for operations. The minute there is any trouble, nothing but an operation will do them; one hundred dollars and costs, and included in the costs are pain, and agony, and often death.

"I suffered for eight years with ovarian troubles; spent hundreds of dollars for relief, until two doctors agreed that an operation was my only chance of life. My sister had been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for her troubles, and been cured, and she strongly urged me to let the doctors go and try the Compound. I did so as a last resort; used it faithfully with the Sanative Wash for five months, and was rejoiced to find that my troubles were over and my health restored. If women would only try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first, fewer surgical operations would occur."—Mrs. L. A. HARRIS, 278 East 31st St., Chicago, Ill.

woman who led them to come into his Rescued After Being Lashed to the Dr. Orvill S. Burnett Found Guilty of the Murder of Mrs. Nichol.

> Chicago, March 3.—The jury in the case of Dr. Orvill S. Burnett, who has been on trial charged with the murder of Mrs. Charlotte S. Nichol, o Nashville, Tenn., returned a verdict of guilty and recommended that Burnett be sent to the penitentiary for 15 years Burnett's attorneys will ask for a new trial Monday. The verdict was a surprise, as Judge Baker's instructions to the jury were considered favorable to the defendant.

The case was one of the most unusual that has ever been tried in the Cook county criminal courts. Burnett, who is a young dentist, was charged with being accessory before and after the fact to the death of Mrs. Nichol, even though it was admitted by the prosecution that Mrs. Nichol had committed suicide. The state endeavored to establish the point that Burnett and Mrs. Nichol agreed to commlt suicide together and that the man weakened, allowing the woman to go to her death alone. The defense dlsputed that there had been any agreement between the two to end their lives together and asserted that Mrs. Nichol had taken her own life while Burnett was lying intoxicated at her side.

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

Three Persons Believed to Have Perished—Half a Dozen Injured.

Reading, Pa., March 3.-A terrific explosion occurred Sunday night in the four-story music store of C. H. Lichty. The building at once completely collapsed. This was followed by the three-story brick umbrella factory adjoining of Mrs. Mary Boland. Both buildings and contents were destroyed. A number of persons were in the buildings, but they are all accounted for except Mrs. Boland and a friend who called to spend Sunday evening, and the watchman in the Lichty building. It is believed these three persons perished. The explosion is said to have been due to a gas which was manufactured by a local company, of which Mr. Lichty was president. The total loss is $250,000. Many nelghboring buildings were damaged. Half a dozen people were sericusly injured and neighboring business buildings were badly damaged.

MALARIA Invisible

Means had air, and whether it comes from the low lands and marshes of the country, or the fithy sewers and drain pipes of the cities and towns, its effect upon the human system is the same.

These atmospheric poisons are breathed into the lungs and taken up by the blood, and the foundation of some long, debill'using i Chills and fever, chronic dyspepsia, torpid and enlarged liver, kidney troubles, jaundice and biliousness are frequently due to that invisible foe, Malaria. Noxious gases and unhealthy matter collect in the system because the liver and kidneys fail to act, and are poured into the blood current until it becomes so polluted and sluggish that the poisons literally break through the skin, and carbuncles, boils, abscesses, ulcers and various eruptions of an I ut character appear, depleting the system, and threatening life it elf.

The germs and poisons that so oppress and weaken the body and destroy the life-giving properties of the blood, rendering it thin and watery, must be overcome and carried out of the system before the patient can hope to get rid of Malaria and its effects.

S. S. does this and quickly produces an entire change in the blood, reaching every organ and stimulating them to vigorous, healthy action. S S. S. possesses not only purifying but tonic properties, and the general health improves, and the appetite increases almost from the first dose. There is no Mercury, Potash, Arsenic or other mineral in S. S. S. It is strictly and entirely a vegetable remedy. Write us about your case, and our physicians will gladly help you by their advice to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases sent Gentlemen: - Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you full history of my case, to be used at your discretion. About five years ago my right ear beg in to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost chearing in this car entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a num-I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of plysiciaus, among others, the most eminent ear specials of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I the saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and loday, if I three weeks, my hearing in the discased car has been entirely restored. I thank you hearthly and beg to rem in
